Our services to people with learning disabilities

- We deliver services that are individualised and person centred in a range of settings across South Wales and South West England
 - We organise and deploy our teams flexibly so they can adapt to changing needs
 - We equip our staff teams with the skills and expertise to meet specialist needs
 - We deliver services along the continuum of care and support

What is working well and can be developed further

- Intensive specialist services delivered in the community in a range of settings
- Remodelling of supported living into options that promote greater choice and independence
- Residential 'step down' services for people in low secure or out of area based on a model of high relational support

How can we help improve the lives of people with learning disabilities

- Listen to people with learning disabilities and continue to develop and design services in line with their needs and ambitions
- Encourage collaborative relationships between statutory agencies and the third sector based on 'open book' approaches and joint delivery
- Further develop the role of the third sector in delivering specialist solutions
